

Fury Performance Training is a comprehensive program designed to increase the speed, strength, skill and physical performance of all participants. This program will start this Spring, continue through the Summer, and be included in the Fall Chicago Fury program. The Chicago Fury has hired Jeff Blindauer MS, CSCS, USAW as a full time athletic trainer to administer the program designed by Kevin Ziegler. A sophisticated analytical computer model will be used to design a customized workout for each athlete, which will allow each individual athlete to maximize their gains. This is a year round training system which will be used to guide each athlete to their optimal level of performance in the off season, as well as, the playing season. Kevin has designed this type of program for NHL, College, and USHL teams. These teams have gone on to compete in events such as the World Championships, Frozen Four, Olympics and the Stanley Cup.

(Jeff & Kevin's bio's can be found on the Chicago Fury website)
